

Beta Reader

Thank you for being part of my Beta Team! I sincerely appreciate you taking the time to help me make improvements to my manuscript. Please, don't worry about grammar, spelling, and punctuation issues; an editor is helping with those. The feedback I'm concerned about centers on continuity, character development, dialogue, flow, and completeness. I understand that all comments are your option and are not meant to be attacks on me or my story. You're here to help me and my story be better. Feel free to mark up your copy with a red pen. Thanks again for your help. I sincerely appreciate it.

Story

Did the chapter grab your attention from the beginning? If not, why not?

Did you find the chapter interesting? If not, why not?

Does the chapter make sense? Please provide examples.

Are there any plot holes? Where and what are they?

Did you notice any discrepancies or inconsistencies in time sequences, places, character details, or other details?

Did the chapter have a beginning, middle, and end yet left you wanting more?

How is the pacing of the chapter? Did it lag anywhere?

Are there any parts that confused you? Or even frustrated or annoyed you? Which parts, and why

Characters

Do you have a solid feel for the characters? If not, why not?

Do the characters feel like they interact with the rest of the characters realistically?

Are the characters likable or hate-able enough while remaining realistic? If not, why not?

Could you relate to the main character? If not, why not?

Did you feel the characters' pain or excitement? If not, why not?

Settings

Do you have a solid feel for the settings? If not, why not?
